"The period during which the Four Georges wielded the scepter of the British Empire, may be justly regarded as the Acuserax Ena or harrish Historia. At no other period has the nation produced so many eminent statesmen, orators, generals, philosophers, poets and savans; no have public events of equal magnitude and interest cocurred at any other epoch of the nation's progress. "That the subject of this volume possesses an interest with American readers cannot well be doubted. The era of which we have written was the primitive period of the present time, both it England and the United States."—[Extract from Preface.

A PRACTICAL SYSTEM of COOKERY.

A PRACTICAL SYSTEM of COCKERY.—

BY AN AMERICAN HOUSEWIFE.

We shall commence in The New-York Tribures next week, the publication of a Practical Work on Cookery, prepared by as American lady of great experience, expressly for our readers. Its purpose is not to instruct the feminine public in impossible retinements, and in the proparation of fanciful dishes for which they will never have occasion, but to teach all persons to make the most of the means within their seach; to bell, fry, are rosat meets, and to cook vegetables, and to make descerts in the most paintable, rational, and wholesome manner.

This work will be continued through many weeks; and those who wish to make sure of having it from beginning to end, will do well to subscribe at once, for THE TRIBUNE, either Daily, Semi-Weekly, or Weekly. Terms, Daily, $6; Semi-Weekly, $2, Address HORACE GREELEY & Co.,

Are notified not to purchase of ilorace fl. Day any such goods, unless the same are stamped with the license mark of Wil.Li.i.A.M. JUDSON, who is the sole owner of the right to make and sell the same. Our suit seginst Day to enjoin him from selling such goods, the trial of which was postponed on Day's application from the 27th day of September, is set down for bearing in the U. S. Circuit Court in this city for the 10th inst., when we shall be ready for trial, and when the question will be settled whether the Woven goods right is owned by Horace H. Day, or by the understread ficensee of the natentee. Woven goods right is owned by Horace H. Day, or by the undersigned, ficenaee of the patentee.

One reason for giving this notice at this time, is, that we have been informed that Horace H. Day and his counsel have, since the adjournment of the hearing which he procured, stated to the Courts where Day has suits pending against venders of Woven Elastic Goods, and to some of the merchants themselves, that we had withdrawn this suit, and that there would be no trial of the case between us and him.

fort in the dialogue; it flows easily and beautifully, without greated depth or remarkable brilliance of any sort, but with the special merit of directness. The writing is, of oourse, good in a literary point of view, thoroughly beainced and elegant. Three characters are well drawn—bit Walter and his wife, and Lord Ardenalthough the individuality of the latter is sacrificed in the compremise of the final scene. Another and meet important character is Jabez Sneed, the steward but thinks simply a steroetyped stage cheat of the dishonest steward sort. Altogether the work merits the popularity it has hereofore enjoyed. It is in every cessential a good play, and must, of its own merits, maintain a prominent place in the represence of the management. In these days of the strical decadence, it is a positive luxury to hear a work so able, complete, and satisfying.

"Mirs Keene was admirable as Lady Amyott. It will be esteemed one of this versatile lady's best parts. In the last act she was immense; excelling in earnest agony of grief anything we have ever seen on the stage. There is not much of the Roundhead about Mr. George Jordan, but he succeeded, never-heless, in giving a very powerful and praiseworthy rendering to the part of Sir Walter. Mr. Daly as Lord Arden, and Mr. Burnett as the Steward, were good, and the other characters were intrusted to competent hands. The play has been put on the sage in a faultiess manner, and may be recorded as a distinct uccess."
